

FRISCO IS MOVING STOCK TO RANGES

Thousands of Cattle Being Taken To Grasscovered Ranges.

On Thursday, March 25, the Frisco began the work of moving 3,500 car loads of cattle which will be shipped from Texas to the grazing grounds of Oklahoma. From six to ten train loads of live stock will be moved daily for the next thirty days from Fort Worth and Brady to Sapulpa, Tulsa and other points in Oklahoma. The company has arranged to handle this stock on very fast schedule, moving it a distance of 325 miles in fifteen to sixteen hours. Cars are being assembled to the shipping points from various places along the system, and there will be an ample supply. Before the panic the company brought 1,000 new stock cars and they will be used in the cattle shipments.

After the live stock is pastured they will be shipped to the St. Louis markets in July, August and during the fall months, most of it passing through Springfield.—Springfield Leader.

Investing Municipal Lighting.

The city council, by its committee on fire, water and lights, is getting estimates and costs on an electric light plant to be owned by the city and to be installed at the water works pumping station. The estimates are to include both street and private lighting.

The question of lighting Broadway is no longer advocated, except by interested parties, but the demand is for a uniform system of lighting that will include all of the principal streets.

The present council believes in the "greatest good to the greatest number" and not to the favored few.

French Named Them Ozarks

University Missourian: "Down in the Ozarks," or "He comes from the Ozarks," are expressions frequently heard by students in the University of Missouri. Few persons know, perhaps, how the name happened to be given to the hills or low mountains in Southern Missouri and Northern Arkansas.

"Ozarks" is a corruption of two French words, "aux arcs," which mean "at or in arches or bows." The name was given to the mountains probably by the early French explorers on account of the shape of the hills. The Ozarks are not an isolated chain of mountains, appearing only in Missouri and Arkansas, but are part of a chain extending from the Rockies to the Appalachians. The chain scarcely appears above the surface in Kansas, but rises in the eastern part, extends across Missouri, through Illinois and Northern Kentucky, and finally merges into the Cumberland mountains.

In the Ozarks are many caves in which have been found many relics, such as stone implements and utensils. These caves are supposed to have been the dwelling places of men in the stone age, and possibly of the "mound builders."

Farmers Take Notice

When in need of fire and tornado insurance you should see that you are written up in a good company. We are prepared to write you in the Home Fire Insurance Company of New York, which is the largest company doing business in the U. S., and can give you as good rates as you can secure any place. We also insure country stores, school houses, churches and all other rural buildings. Your patronage will be appreciated.

A New Addition

We have now added to our insurance department "The live stock life insurance," which insures fine stock against death. We can write you at moderate rates. Call and let us give you the particulars.

Handy Farm Helps

There are a thousand and one things, many of which could be made in a few minutes' time and which would cost comparatively nothing, that would lighten the farmer's labor. Have you, Mr. Farmer, one or more such devices in use? If so, will you not favor other farmers by writing a brief description of one or more of these labor savers and mail to George B. Ellis, secretary Missouri State Board of Agriculture, Columbia, Mo.

No matter what the device is just so it is not patented. It may be a good plan for a gate, a simple hinge latch or other fastening; a ground marker, potato cutter, wagon jack, wagon box or hay frame lift, feed trough, slop cart or water tank.

Or it is possible that it is some handy device for use in the kitchen or elsewhere to make easier the work of the housewife.

Maybe you have an idea as to just how to best brace or to put in corner-posts for wire fence. If so, write Secretary Ellis about it, or better still, send him drawing or photograph.

The women of Missouri are especially invited to describe simple, easily made kitchen helps, such as they have found useful. If a sufficient number of useful suggestions are received they will be used in a bulletin soon to be issued by the Missouri State Board of Agriculture, and a copy will be mailed to each contributor.

Charged With Petit Larceny

Monday afternoon while P. Short was at supper a young woman named Maud James called at the jewelry store to get a ring repaired. While there she asked to see some rings and Harry Brown, clerk, placed a tray on the case. She looked them over and then departed. It was soon discovered that a $10.00 ring was missing and Chief of police was put on the track of the woman. At a late hour she was found at the depot preparing to go to Springfield. She dropped the ring on the platform but it was found and she was taken in custody.

Tuesday the case was called by Prosecuting Attorney Talbert and J. E. Sater appeared for the defense.

The verdict was three days in jail and costs.

Mrs. Roy Brown Dead.

Mrs. Roy Brown died at her home in Purdy, Monday, March 29.

The funeral was held at the Purdy Baptist Church Tuesday. Mrs. Brown leaves her husband and two children. The deceased had been an invalid for about 2½ years, having injured her spine by a fall on the ice. She had been a great sufferer.

Mrs. Brown formerly lived in Monett.

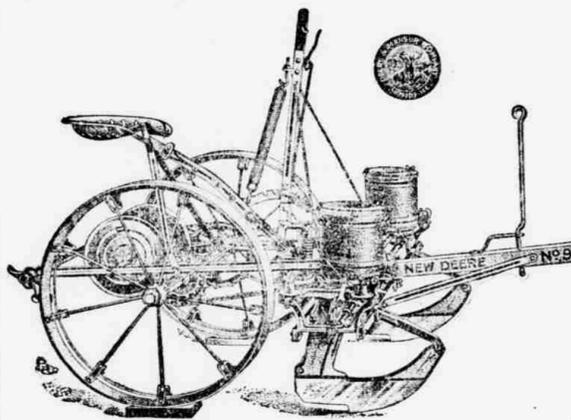

Miss Maybelle Johnson is quite ill with pneumonia.

The merchant or business man who systematizes his business is commended, but the city council that attempts such a proceeding is enjoined.

Suppose it was your daughter whose wages were being held up by a writ of injunction, would you vote for the candidates of the men who were responsible for the act? We use the word men rather than party for the reason that the rank and file of no party are in sympathy with the few who were responsible for the writ of injunction.

The street commissioner, and his assistants are just completing two concrete crossings on Third street, thus doing away with the old wood affairs and denying the pedestrian the privilege of wading through mud. This is contrary to the old order of things and a writ of injunction should be issued at once on the city council prohibiting them from paying for work and material. Stop progress at all hazards.

A Good Entertainment.

Miss Galaghers Readings at the Christian Church last night delighted the hearers. She is Elocution instructor in the Marionville College. She is a modest refined and accomplished lady, and her entertainment is of such a character, as to create the noblest sentiment, and make one feel it is not at all out of place in the house of God.

The accompanying musical numbers rendered by Mrs. Dr. Jones, Miss Johnson, and Mr. Lauderdale also added much joy and delight to the evenings entertainment. Class No. 10 feel that they were fortunate in securing such able helpers, and they take this opportunity to express to all their sincere thanks.

Finn Acquitted

Charles Finn who, when a special officer, shot and killed Calvin Finkel a Drury college student on the college campus, Halloween night, last, was acquitted of charge of second degree murder, his trial for which was held in criminal court Saturday before Judge Page.

That the verdict was not thought proper by Judge Page was made evident this morning upon the convening of court by a speech in which he denounced it as a "miscarriage of justice and a thing that causes the citizens of the country to show a lack of respect for courts as an institution or justice."—Springfield Leader.

STARK'S CHANGES

ADOPTED.

Proposition to Change Primary Date From August to First Tuesday in May—Requires Candidates to Make Deposits Before Filing.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 29.—The Joint Committee on Revision of the Statutes has adopted the main features of an act making changes in the primary election law introduced early in the session by Senator Stark, of Pike.

The more important changes in the old law are: The time for holding the primary is changed from August to the first Tuesday in May; the petition feature is dispensed with entirely, something all the candidates at the last primary voted unanimously to be a costly nuisance and of no value.

In place of petitions, candidates are required to file written declarations at least sixty days prior to the primary. This declaration must give the full name of the candidate, residence, office sought, party, and a declaration to the effect that if the candidate is nominated, he will qualify.

Each candidate, save for township officers, prior to filing declaration papers, shall pay to the Treasurer of the State or County Committee of the political party to which he belongs, on the following scale: If a State Candidate, or a candidate for Judge of one of the courts of appeal, $100; for Congress, $50; for Circuit Judge or State Senator, $25; for member of the lower house of the Legislature or county office, $10.

The money shall be used as an expense fund, and shall be exempt from the provisions of the corrupt practices act. Independent candidates, who have no party organizations, as here described, shall pay to the State or County Treasurer, as the case may be. No candidate can file for more than one party nomination.

This act repeals the primary law of 1907, although the greater part of the latter is re-enacted in the Stark bill. It will be observed that under the terms of this law political campaigns will open in Missouri three months earlier than under the old law.

Attorneys General of 8 States to Discuss Rates.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 27—A conference of the attorneys general of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Texas and Missouri will be called for some time during the first week in April by Attorney General Major, according to announcement made by him tonight. The meeting will be held in Kansas City, and railroad rates, lumber trusts, prosecutions and kindred matters which are engaging the attention of the states interested will be discussed.

Some days ago Attorney General Major sent letters to officials of other states suggesting the conference, and enough favorable replies have been received to insure the success of the plan.
